Youth Participation and Engagement Specialist Consultant

About Aflatoun International.

Aflatoun International is an NGO based in the Netherlands focusing on social and economic empowerment of children and young people worldwide. Through a network of 300 partners and 30 Governments, the organisation reaches millions children and young people each year in more than 100 countries. Aflatoun International creates high-quality curricula, for different age groups, which can be contextualised to local needs or specific circumstances. In addition, teachers are provided with professional development and we conduct research to evaluate the quality and effectiveness of our work.

About the project:

The agreed assignment between Aflatoun International and UNICEF EAPRO is to develop and deliver set of facilitator-led training sessions on developing youth participation practices for civil society organization staff, local level policy makers, government officials, youth-led organisations and others who would directly be working with young people to promote meaningful participation. Moreover, young people will also be the target audience of the programme. The modules are to be based on the Engaged and Heard Guidelines and other ADAP resources and need to be contextualized to the Southeast Asian context.
